Sunrise and sunset on the 15th of each month, UK clock time. Helicopters fly by sight and cannot use an unlit site after dark, so the last flight of the day is planned back from sunset. If a flight is cancelled because of the weather, you pay nothing.

TEN MINUTES, AND A LANDING SITE OF ITS OWN

The hotel's website says it has its own helicopter landing site and asks visitors to contact it to book a landing time. We make that request with your booking, agree the day and time, and confirm the arrangement before the booking is final. An independent airfield guide describes how the landing area has moved around the grounds over the years, which is a good reason to follow whatever the hotel tells us about its current layout rather than anyone's older map.

WHAT THE GROUNDS OFFER

The Tudor house stands in about 50 acres with listed parterres, a Saxon moat, a Japanese bridge and a sundial the hotel says was a gift from Sir Francis Drake. There are 56 rooms and suites, an outdoor art-deco pool open in summer and spa treatments all year.

USING THE SHORT DISTANCE WELL

Because the flight is so brief, the day can be built the other way round: arrive for a late breakfast on the terrace, lunch, afternoon tea and a mid-afternoon departure, with the aircraft waiting for you on the hotel's own landing site. In winter the short flight leaves you daylight for a comfortable late-afternoon return.
